Online Security Risks Hiding In Corporate Data The cyberworld is a very different place today. Hackers and cyber criminals surround us on all sides and target vulnerable online data on a daily basis. Businesses are one of their top targets, and this is because of the high value of corporate data. Recent reports indicate that only one out of 5 businesses has ever experienced some sort of cyber-attack. However, what these companies fail to realize is that the data they store on cloud servers is highly valuable to hackers. This means that there's a high chance your business will be hacked at some point in the near future. Some experts even say that most companies will fall prey to this threat within 12 months after first suffering a cybercrime incident. The good news is, there's still time for you to take action. It's not too late to protect your company from these attacks. The easiest way to do this is by using a reliable Microsoft Office 365 alternative that actually works. The Most Common Office365 Alternatives A lot of companies and individuals are looking for alternatives for Microsoft Office 365. However, since there are so many out there, picking the right one can be quite a challenge. You may want to choose one based on price, but the truth is, you get what you pay for in most cases. Picking an alternative simply because it's cheaper than Microsoft office365 is not recommended at all. Your company deserves something more secure and better protected than that. There's just one factor you should consider before you choose an alternative to office 365. That is, the security of your company's data. For most people, their data is more important than anything else. So it's best to go with a cloud service that offers premium security features. Otherwise, you might end up losing all your precious corporate data due to some simple mistake.
